Other opportunities to be in God's Word

Tuesday Morning

Bible Study at 10:00 a.m.

This group has been using the magazine "Good News", which is published by Concordia Mission Society. The editor is the former LHM speaker Wallace Schultz. There are several editions available in the pastor's study/office for anyone who would like to review a topic or use one for a personal Bible study.

Wednesday morning

Ladies Bible Study at 10:30 a.m. is resuming our bible study with a lighter summer study. Children are welcome and if you have a short study idea, we would love to hear it.

If evenings are better, join us at the Cottage Meetings the last Friday of the month at 7 p.m. hosted at a members home. September is being hosted by Mark and Sharon Meyers

In the

Sunday Morning Bible study,

Pastor is currently covering Ecclesiastes. Join us for an interesting look into this portion of the Old Testament.

We hope to see all of you at one or more of these Bible Studies.

Christian Education News

The Board of Christian Education had our quarterly meeting in July. Our next meeting is scheduled for October 15th and as always, anyone is welcome to join us to help plan the education we do here at Trinity.

I'm looking forward to our regular Sunday School program starting back up on September 9th. Please plan to bring your kids on Sunday at 8:45 as we kick off the new Sunday School year. While they are in Sunday School, please join Pastor and other adults to finish up a study on the book of Ecclesiastes.

Rally day & Sunday School teacher installation is September 9th as well. I am still looking for a pre-school teacher or two. If you would like to work with our littlest children (3 to 5 year olds), please talk to me. We are set up in teams so you would only teach every other Sunday. All the materials are provided so it just takes a little prep time each week.

The board of Christian Education is sponsoring an Ice cream social here at church on September 16th from 4:30 to 7:00. I need volunteers to help plan, set-up, serve and bring desserts. Please let me know if you're interested in helping out. The whole church and community is invited! Our goal is three-fold.

- 1) to offer some fellowship for our members,
- 2) to invite some families who attended VBS and don't have a church home to come back and see us, and
- 3) to welcome our community into our church. We want people to know who we are!

In Christ,

Elizabeth Eppler

Lessons Learned from Watching Golf

The following was retrieved from Men's Network, LHM, 8/1/12. It is written for everyone and is not about golf but about the lessons learned that point to the virtues of life that are paralleled in Golf. (Pastor Snider)

This summer's protracted heat wave has forced me inside, abandoning my regular summer routines of working in the yard. In an effort to remain cool, I have found PGA golf. My new routine is to attend Sunday morning worship, have dinner, and then head to the "man cave" to watch the world's best golfers.

What started as an exercise in keeping cool has now become an eagerly anticipated routine. I've even begun following a few of the more notable players: Bubba Watson, Ernie Els, Jim Furyk, John Daly, and Zach Johnson. It's been interesting observing players as they navigate course layouts and conditions, interface with spectators in the gallery, and rise up to face the pressure of playing in these high-stakes tournaments. And my observing has not gone unrewarded either; I've learned some life lessons watching these men compete.

Here are seven for your consideration:

One: Never give up. Even if you put your tee shot in a fairway bunker and your opponent is smack dab in the middle of the fairway, that doesn't mean the hole's a bust. You can still win it by reminding yourself it's a game where every shot counts. A great bunker shot against an opponent's fair-to-good approach shot has won the hole more than a few times in golf. The man who loses hope, however, might as well put his sticks back in his bag.

Two: Keep calm. Many a player going into the home stretch has blown his lead -- and the round -- by succumbing to pressure. I've watched plenty of golfers have their wheels come off, as they blow a short putt, shank one into the woods, or find the water. The ones getting their names engraved on the trophy Sunday afternoon are the ones who rein in their adrenalized nerves. The man who can keep his emotions in check is more likely to get the check.

Three: A miss is a miss. I've watched leaders squirrel away a first-place finish by missing a putt of a few inches. Those inches loom large when you consider the difference between first and second place. As someone once said, "Second place is the first loser." A miss by a foot costs just as much as a miss by six inches. Golf is not like horse-shoes and hand grenades: close enough never is.

Four: Rules count. I've watched players drop a ball out of a hazard three times, before they could play their next shot. The smallest deviation from the rules requires them to drop again. A strict adherence and enforcement of the rules is important to the outcome of the tournament. The savvy man follows the rules, even when no one is watching.

Five: A great drive means nothing, if the next shot is a disaster. A golfer, who sends one through the stratosphere, positioning himself beautifully for a birdie attempt, can still bogie the hole -- or worse -- with an approach shot that sails over the green and finds the drainage ditch. It's a funny thing: every shot, every hole -- they all matter.

Six: Know when to lay up. I've watched as golfers try hard to reach the green, only to find it was outside their distance. The result? They lose the hole to their opponent, who, of course, more wisely, laid up, positioned himself for the putt and dropped it in the bucket for par. A man who understands his skill level can strategize his game accordingly.

Seven: Know the lay of the land. A golfer who misreads the break in the green will surely miss the cup. It's important to know the lay of the land (the breaks, dips, speed, ground hardness, etc.) and how the ball will react with the surface. A winner needs to understand his environment and how it impacts him.

Perhaps one of the reasons golf has such a broad appeal is the way it mirrors life. We can see ourselves in the game we play, when we're honest about it. We know instinctively how we should make a lot of the shots before us, but impatience, lack of confidence, nerves, or our roaming attention span has us giving away the hole -- and the game -- more times than we'd care to admit. We can expect more of the same, if we resist making the necessary adjustments to play better.

The choice is up to us.

Hey Trinity! Are you ready for some Football?

Email to Pastor from EMU

My name is Camila Belassi and I work for Eastern Michigan University Athletic Marketing.

I wanted to get in touch with you because we recently got very fortunate and one of our corporate partners, Pepsi, purchased a lot of football tickets from us which we would like to donate to members of our community as a token of appreciation for your services.

We would like to offer you and members of your church the opportunity to choose one of our home games (schedule below) and come to our football games for free. We can provide you with as many tickets as you would want and you and members of your organization could enjoy a great day of fun by watching Division I football live. We also provide free parking for your convenience.

Please do not be shy with the amount of tickets requested since we have plenty to give out, and for us the more people we help the better.

HOME SCHEDULE:

Pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters...day after day, LWML women across the United States and Canada collect their mites. And as the months pass into years, their mites accumulate to an astounding amount.

The national and district Lutheran Women's Missionary Leagues faithfully use these hundreds of thousands of dollars to fund mission projects at the local, national and world levels. When the women meet in convention, they vote on which mission projects to support with their mites.

Over the years, many district LWMLs have voted to send some of their mite money to LHF. As a result, more than a dozen books have been published for Lutherans around the world.

"For generations, the women of the LWML have been a huge blessing the LHF and to Lutheran missions in general," said Rev. James Fandrey, LHF executive director. "We thank God for their faithful partnership in the LHF mission."

(From Kristin) What a blessing it is to collect our change and help fund such important and life-changing projects. If you don't have a mite box (most purple and bear the LWML logo), they are available at Trinity. Feel free to ask Kristin Myher for one. Men – you are not excluded – your change works just as well!

Prayer List

Praise and thanksgiving

Gracious God and Father, we humbly magnify the wisdom of your ways and in childlike trust commit ourselves to Your fatherly guidance. Uphold us, we pray You by Your right hand, guide us with Your counsel, and receive us at last into glory. We pray for those among us who are in special need of your guidance and healing:

- For John and Diane Menning give them comfort, peace and strength.
- Continued healing for Carolyn Benkovsky, Doris Young, and Cathie Snider.
- For Doris Young: for her new residence
- For Sharon Huettman for cancer treatments.
- Safe travels for all members of our congregation and all others who are traveling
- For the soldiers overseas who are still protecting freedoms, our own and others in the world: Brandon Snider in Korea, Melissa Van Gorden, Tyler Martin, and Anthony Chapman who are serving in Afghanistan.
- Guidance, wisdom and strength of faith for the Congregation of Trinity as they nurture and grow the seed sown in this place.
- Pray for our Missionaries in other countries that they remain safe in Your care as they spread Your Word – Remember Doris Kayser in Guinea
